

NEWMARK RETIRES; WILL GO TO EUROPE

Health Commissioner Simon's Appointee for Chief Clerk at City Hospital Says Position Does Not Warrant Contention.

One point of contention between Mayor Wells and Health Commissioner Simon was removed yesterday when Henry Newmark withdrew his name from further consideration for the position as chief clerk at the City Hospital.

Newmark, whose appointment has been held up in the Board of Health for more than two weeks, evidently as one of the phases of the controversy between the Mayor and Health Commissioner, says that the position "does not warrant the amount of contention," and that he will accept of duty on the steamer Fleet Wednesday July 6.

Although much political pressure has been brought to bear on both sides since Commissioner Simon removed Miss Elizabeth Rowan from the City Hospital and appointed Newmark to the position, all Newmark declares that he was not "induced" to withdraw his name, but that he had decided that he could not wish to work for Mayor Wells.

When Newmark was taken from the position of chief clerk at the City Hospital, Commissioner Simon was referred to the Mayor's office by the Mayor's order.

Newmark's withdrawal was announced yesterday and Commissioner Simon was notified of the same.
